Robert Townsend Herdegen

1884-1972

Robert Townsend Herdegen (known as "Bob" or "Rob" to his intimates) was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin in 1884, grew up there, and graduated from the University of Wisconsin.

His father, Adolph Herdegen, was born in Stuttgart, Germany, while his mother, Alice Townsend, was born in Rutland, Vermont. As a youth Bob spoke German quite well and retained some fluency in the language throughout his life. As a youth he began collecting coins, mostly Indian cents, though he had very little money to spend on the hobby. He also developed a lifelong interest in ornithology, the study of birds.

Bob enjoyed a very active and successful business career, expanding a good portion of his considerable energies in founding the Dominion Forge Co., an automotive parts company, based in Windsor, Ontario, Canada, a firm he headed for many years. He made his home at Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan.

While directing the fortunes of Dominion Forge, Bob Herdegen could spend only a limited amount of time on numismatics . . . nevertheless, he built up a comprehensive collection of U. S. decimal series coins, acquiring many choice pieces from a number of noted collections as they were being broken up, including the Colonel E. H. R. Green and Virgil Brand holdings.

Shortly before his retirement he began to assemble a complete collection of Canadian and Newfoundland decimal coins, along with issues of the other Canadian provinces. He acquired most of the U. S. and Canadian specimens in that era before counterfeit and "whizzed" coins began to plague the hobby.

After his retirement, Bob, with the encouragement of his wife, Genevieve, broadened his collecting interests, first concentrating on Crowns of the World, and he eventually assembled one of the finest collection of dollar-size silver pieces of the world ever compiled, missing only a very few specimens listed by Dr. Davenport in his several volumes. Beginning in 1962, he began a type collection of conis of the British Commonwealth, and later became interested in the issues of Latin America, countries of the Caribbean, and those of Africa and Asia. He often gave illustrated talks on his collection at meetings of the Grosse Pointe Coin Club.

Bob Herdegen willed his entire collection of foreign coins (excepting those of North America) to the American Numismatic Association Museum in Colorado Springs. His ANA number was 31836. The presentation was formally made by Mrs. Herdegen and the gift is officially known as "The Robert T. Herdegen Memorial Collection." It was Bob's hope and wish that by having this collection on display at the A.N.A. Museum, that the visitor or numismatist would have the opportunity to view coins that would not otherwise be available to them and that this might encourage some to branch out into new fields of collecting. Bob felt that the educational value of numismatics could not be overemphasized and this was the primary reason he wanted his collection to be on view at the A.N.A. Museum. Bob was a true numismatist who not only was fascinated by the coin, but also by the history and geography connected with the coins.

Bob was not a mere collector of coins . . . he was a true numismatist for the coin's history and the role it played in a country's economic life was of utmost importance to him. Many leading dealers assisted him in acquiring the choicest specimens for his collection. It's impossible to name them all, but those that Bob often referred to were Randolph Zander, Bob and Jack Friedberg, Lauren Benson and Hans Schulman.

He received much assistance in the cataloguing and housing of his collection from his wife Genevieve, and from his close friend of many years, Bob Valentine.

Bob Herdegen loved life and he loved people. He always had a friendly smile and a kind word for everybody, regardless of their station in life. He was greatly respected by employees of Dominion Forge, the company he founded and directed for so many years.

Bob and Genevieve Herdegen were keen sports enthusiasts, and they especially loved watching baseball. An impeccable dresser, Bob was always seen with a small cigar in his hand and a fresh rose in his lapel, his two "trademarks."

Numismatics played an important role in giving Bob a most pleasurable retirement . . . he was always alert, active and well-informed, never bored for a moment. He foresaw the current monetary crises and the devaluation of the dollar long before it happened and he expected the increase in the price of gold. His death came on February 27, 1972 in his 88th year.

We sincerely hope that the successful bidders will derive as much pleasure and enjoyment from the coins in this catalogue as Bob Herdegen did during his lifetime.

MAGNIFICENT OFFICIAL STATEHOOD MEDALS

The Alaskan medals were released on July 4, 1959 when the 49 star flag was first officially flown throughout the nation. It was authorized by Senate Resolution No. 15 in the legislature of the State of Alaska at the first session of the first legislature, the House of Representatives concurring. The obv. shows the Alaskan landscape. The rev. has the seal of the State. Very few specimens were struck in gold, only 100 and this immensely heavy gold medal flanked by bronze and silver represents a rarity, beauty and investment.

The three Hawaiian medals were issued by the State in 1959 when Hawaii became the 50th State. The arms of Hawaii on the reverse beautifully engraved, are sort of concave while the obverse shows the State, a map with the islands. August 21 was the official date.

The heavy gold medal of which few only 58 were struck and the scarce silver and bronze represent very high numismatic, rarity and investment value.

With gold over $100 per ounce and over 4 ounces of gold, the gold value is added to its rarity. Apart from the official statehood medals, the Collection offers the 1967 Purchase Centennial set in platinum, silver and bronze.

ERROR CENT

284A 1972–D Lincoln Cent. A very interesting and authentic mint error resulting from severely clashed dies in which the columns of the Lincoln Memorial appear on the obverse in sharp detail. We quote from the authenticating letter of the U. S. Mint at Denver, Colo., as follows:
"The coin you enclosed was stamped after a severe die clash. Sometime the stamping press miss–feeds and a blank does not drop in the collar. This permits the obverse die and the reverse die to come together leaving marks from each die on the other. The next blank to enter the collar is then stamped by the clashed dies, showing some obverse detail on the reverse, and reverse detail on the obverse of the coin. We try by frequent inspection to keep coins of this type from getting into circulation, however, a few do get out". No doubt a rare mint error. PHOTO (——)

A beautiful coin with lovely proof–like surfaces, but very likely a first strike. This coin was in the Owner's Album as the 1803 PROOF restrike, using the identical reverse die of the famous 1804 Silver Dollar, and only after research have we determined that this attribution was probably not correct. Historically, the coins of this year were believed to have been used in the Louisiana Purchase, as the transaction was completed in new silver dollars. A very interesting, attractive and scarce specimen. PHOTO (——)

MEDALS PERTAINING TO THE U.S.

Consigned by the

NUMISMATIC AND ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY OF PHILADELPHIA

These medals in effect relate in capsule form the history of America from Colonial times to the first half of the twenticth century. Among the most interesting specimens are the nineteenth century Indian Peace Medals and Presidential Inaugural Medals, both series struck at the Philadelphia Mint. These are the originals and not the restrikes. Moreover, we have here official inaugural medals struck outside the Philadelphia Mint, as well as various un–official issues.

With the current high interest in the U. S. Revolution Bicentennial, we take great pleasure in offering many contemporary pieces struck for the U. S. Centennial Exposition held at Philadelphia in 1876 and for the World's Columbian Exposition held at Chicago in 1892–93. Medals of various other International Expositions held in many parts of the United States are also included.

Dealers and collectors should also note that many nineteenth century medals included here were struck by the Philadelphia Mint for various private organizations and associations. There were virtually no private mints of any consequence operating in the United States at this time . . . consequently, medals required for special purposes were frequently produced by the government facility at Philadelphia. Those who are interested in the history of the Philadelphia Mint and the work of its great engravers might note relevant lots very carefully.

From the times of the Greeks and Romans, medals in a myriad of types have been very important to man, and as we can readily see from this remarkable consignment, medals have played a vital role in the American experience.

Much is being written on classic U. S. medals today. For example, Richard B. Dusterberg's "The Official Inaugural Medals of Presidents of the United States" (Medallion Press, Cincinnati, Ohio, 1971) is an excellent new book, while Herbert C. Bardes, "New York Times" numismatic writer, devoted his entire Sept. 23, 1973 Sunday column to the subject of Presidential inaugural medals . . . by Robert Obojski.
